

Works under the supervision of Medical Laboratory Technologists or Laboratory Managers. Obtains specimens from patients and performs established clinical tests and procedures. Interprets test results. Performs instrument and equipment maintenance. The ability to comprehend and follow routine written or verbal instruction or directions.

OSHA Bloodborne Pathogens I.

Bachelor's Degree as Medical Laboratory Scientist or Associates Degree as a Medical Laboratory Technician, and certification by ASCP or AMT, required. Full time position.

One year of medical laboratory training/experience in high complex testing involving all major areas of the Clinical Laboratory preferred.